SEA COAST ECHO

The A&G Theatre on North Beach Boulevard in Bay St. Louis has sat vacant for the past 40 years. Last December, New Orleans developers Jim and Catherine MacPhaille completed the purchase of the building.

"It's going to be restored to its former glory as a multi-purpose performance space for movies, theater, comedy, music, receptions and live entertainment," Jim MacPhaille said in a release from the Hancock County Chamber of Commerce.

MS Senate eyes new school funding plan

Hancock, Bay-Wave, Pass school districts could lose -- or gain -- millions annually

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

The Mississippi Senate will vote on a plan to scrap the old Mississippi Adequate Education Program in the next few days, and -- depending on to whom you speak -- local school districts could either lose or gain millions in annual funding.

House Bill 957, authored by Speaker Philip Gunn, R-Clinton, made it through the House earlier this week and made it to the Senate on Tuesday.

The non-profit Parents Campaign sent out a "red alert" on Tuesday asking people to contact their state senators to vote the new plan down.

"They're gutting public education in the state of Mississippi," Sen. Deborah Dawkins, D-Pass Christian, said Tuesday. "In fact, we've gotten an interesting analysis from one of the senior senators who was here when MAEP was passed. He said if this goes through, everybody loses."

In fact, the Parents Campaign estimates that virtually every school district in the state will lose funding.

According to that group's estimates, under the new plan, the Bay St. Louis-Waveland School District would lose more than $1,294,890 annually by Fiscal

LOCAL VOLUNTEERS AIM TO FIND 'fur-ever' HOMES FOR CANINES

Volunteers from the LaTier Animal Sanctuary on Saturday set up booths in front of Tractor Supply Co. in Bay St. Louis to help find "fur-ever homes" for dozens of dogs.

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

There was a carnival-like atmosphere at Tractor Supply Co. in Bay St. Louis on Saturday as Brandy Gordon, Ashlynn Dunlap, Marcy Norris and a host of other volunteers from LaTier Sanctuary hosted a pet adoption event in front of the store.

Gordon and Dunlap started the sanctuary on Pearl Street in Bay St. Louis "to give displaced animals a safe place to rest their heads and fill their bellies," according to the group's website. "Furthermore, a place where they feel unconditionally loved and feel as though their lives do matter."

"Here at Brandy & Ashlynn's LaTier Sanctuary, we provide a safe place for abandoned, stray and surrendered animals. We are on call 24 hours a day. We have no fee for surrender, or pick up. All animals we adopt out WILL be

Ukulele group forms in Bay St. Louis

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

Ukulele enthusiasts from far and wide -- even if you don't yet know how to play -- are invited to join a new group which will meet twice a month in Bay St. Louis.

"We want people who already know how to play and those who don't," group organizer Jack Schornick said. "The ukulele is the easiest instrument in the world to learn."

Teens and adults of any age are welcome. The group will meet on the first and third Wednesday from 5:30-7 p.m. at the St. Rose de Lima Catholic Church on S. Nicaise Ave. in Bay St. Louis. The cost is just $3 per session. The money will be donated to the church.

"Every week, we'll introduce new chords and learn simple songs," Schornick said.

After everyone is trained, he said, "We're going to perform."

WAVELAND CITY HALL HOSTS Linda Aiavolasiti's Art

SEA COAST ECHO

Linda Aiavolasiti is always seeking that “illusive butterfly” as her creative outlet and that is what she sees when she looks at a flower or another part of nature or even a book; it strikes a chord in her wild creative imagination.

For this energetic, creative Waveland resident The Ground Zero Hurricane Museum Director visual art has become her after work martini.

She has developed her self-taught visual artistic personality over the years to give herself a release from her daily life she has allowed her art to become the escape that so many often talk about yet so few actually accomplish in their life.

“As a ‘lefty’ in a right handed world, I feel that my art says something different about me that others may not know or even understand”, according to Aiavolasiti.

While Aiavolasiti describes her style as “eclectic” she uses chalk pastels and colored pencils because it may be a departure from the usual methods of acrylics or oils for pieces that are of this size according to Aiavolasiti, “I find it to be inexpensive and easy to contain, which is an important factor to me”.

When Aiavolasiti is not working on her afternoon pursuit of happiness she can be found in the The Ground Zero Hurricane Museum on Coleman

Linda Aiavolasiti

Avenue in Waveland.

The Museum is her passion because “I love to talk to all (the) visitors from all over the world because Katrina was a worldwide storm.” Before becoming the director, Aiavolasiti, was a volunteer for the museum starting in 2013. Aiavolasiti’s other interests include The Little Theatre in Bay St. Louis and Pass Christian where she has performed in eight plays and has also served in the capacity of assistant director. Aiavolasiti loves Waveland, moving here in 1994 and buying a home in 2001 saying, “You may meet some strange people here, but you will never meet a stranger”

To become a museum volunteer please email LindaKidd@RSVP.com

The Arts on Coleman Ave is a joint cooperative between The Arts: Hancock County and Waveland City Hall Aiavolasiti’s work will hang in the Waveland City Hall until the end of March.

MAC, LLC enters strategic partnership with NAMMO

SEA COAST ECHO

Hancock County, - MAC, LLC, a manufacturer of lightweight ammunition and lightweight ammunition cartridge cases at Port Bienville Industrial Park, announces that NAMMO has taken an ownership position in MAC. NAMMO is a global leader in specialty ammunition. The new ownership position was consummated in late January of this year.
Officials said the partnership is expected to increase production and add jobs to the Port Bienville facility. MAC's management and operations in Hancock County will not change with the new ownership. MAC currently has 21 employees.
MAC opened in Hancock County

10 years ago to develop and commercialize lightweight, polymer-based ammunition products for military and aerospace markets. The polymer-based products have the advantage of significantly reducing the weight of ammunition that troops carry and transport.
Nick Malkovich, MAC president, said, "We are optimistic that the next phase for MAC involves increased production and high-end manufacturing jobs as we continue to equip our troops with ammunition that gives them the best possible chances for success."
Malkovich said NAMMO has a reputation as a reliable supplier of products for U.S. and allied customers around the world. "They can assist us in scaling up operations as we strive to meet the needs of customers in this rapidly emerging marketplace. Our footprint in the global marketplace is enhanced greatly by this partnership," he said.

Malkovich thanked MAC employees for their "dedication and arduous work" to help form the NAMMO partnership. He also thanked Hancock County officials, the Port and Harbor Commission, Mississippi Development Authority and Mississippi's congressional delegation for their continued support of MAC's operation. "Their vision has allowed us to develop such a crucial technology right here in South Mississippi. It allows us to continue to bring high paying, technology-based jobs to the area," Malkovich said.

EPA Awards $25K TO MISSISSIPPI STATE UNIVERSITY FOR RURAL VOICES RADIO: VOICES ALONG THE GULF WILL BENEFIT BAY-WAVELAND MIDDLE SCHOOL AND HANCOCK CO. HISTORICAL SOCIETY

SEA COAST ECHO

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency's (EPA) Gulf of Mexico Program this week announced a $24,925 award to Mississippi Writing/Thinking Institute at Mississippi State University (MSU) to work with students to develop environmental content for Rural Voices Radio: Voices Along the Gulf. The award will support two school groups, Bay-Waveland Middle School in Bay St. Louis and Stone High School in Wiggins, and one non-profit organization, the Hancock County Historical Society. "This project will expand environmental awareness and promote EPA's mission of protecting human health and the environment throughout Mississippi," said Trey Glenn, EPA Region 4 Administrator. "Hands-on opportunities help to change behaviors of Gulf residents as 'keepers of the coast' with vested interest in its protection."
Through the project, EPA staff will work with Rural Voices Radio to guide participants and help them identify and learn about environmental issues within the Gulf of Mexico region. Participants will then write about what they learn and record a segment for radio. This is a unique opportunity for these groups to expand awareness of environmental issues in Mississippi ranging from habitat conservation and restoration, to water quality and community resilience.

Rural Voices Radio, a partnership that began in 2003 between the Mississippi Writing/Thinking Institute at MSU and Mississippi Public Broadcasting, works with children and adults to write and record radio content. Pieces from the Rural Voices Radio series air each weekday at 3:28 p.m. and are broadcast throughout the state, in neighboring states and—via the internet—across the country.
The Gulf of Mexico Program began in 1988 to protect, restore and maintain the health and productivity of the Gulf of Mexico ecosystem in economically sustainable ways. The Gulf of Mexico Program is funded by the EPA and is a non-regulatory, inclusive consortium of state and federal government agencies and representatives of the business and agricultural community, fishing industry, scientists, environmentalists, and community leaders from all five Gulf States.

AS WE GET OLDER, THINGS BECOME MORE DIFFICULT TO DO

It seems that it is getting that the older one gets, the harder it is to open products one likes to eat, if they can open the packaging.

I recently purchased a container of ice cream.

It was one of those plastic containers.

Well, I have never tackled such a well-packed tub of ice cream.

With all types of struggles, it took me over 15 minutes to get the package open.

I realize that there are produce package guidelines, but what are senior citizens going to do?

It seems about every thing packaged is getting harder and harder to open.

Even packages and canned food products all are getting harder and harder to open.

Of course the reasons for the design of some packaging is to keep children away from products that they don't need to have in their possession.

I feel there could be a very good conversation held about packaging by those of us who are above eighty.

To get some good ice cream is still worth the extra effort.

On another subject, this sure has been a terrible winter with all types of cold temperatures with the addition of many wet day.

Myself, I cannot wait until the return of spring and warmer temperatures.

During our life we may not always receive weather that is pleasing to everyone.

Until the next time.

MARDI GRAS REVELRY DIGS DEEP INTO OUR SOUL

Mardi Gras, and later Lundi Gras as well, were ambiguous times for me, despite the outrageously joyous music of musicians like Henry Roeland "Roy" Byrd, better known as Professor Longhair. Whistling, freewheeling his way up and down the ivory with a primal rhythm and beat, the Professor belted out his 1959 rendition of "Go To the Mardi Gras" with the joy, passion and the very soul of the New Orleans Mardi Gras. That primal rhythm and beat have haunted me through the years.

Upon reading the above paragraph from my recent column, DOING LENTEN PENANCE CAN BE VERY RELATIVE, and viewing photos shot by Sheik Richardson of a score of Mardi Gras revelers gathered around the Tomb of the Unknown Slave at Saint Augustine Church in New Orleans, Georgina Dhillon, creator/editor/publisher of Kreol International Magazine, excitedly requested that I write an expanded version of that paragraph about the Mardi Gras atmosphere in New Orleans.

REFLECTIONS ON LIFE

by Fr. Jerome Ledoux, SVD

Immediately, I understood that what excited Georgina Dhillon was the same primal beat and rhythm that turns anyone on who is open and receptive to the spirit and soul of that hair-tingling primal beat and rhythm. It was that same primeval sound that so intrigued me in 1943 as a 13-year-old boy who visited my New Orleans relatives, Darryl and Delores Narcisse and their daughter and two sons, en route to Saint Augustine Seminary in Bay Saint Louis, Mississippi. What I had seen of Mardi Gras in my 206-mile-distant native Lake Charles was just a drop in a bucket.

There are heartwarming echoes of that same primal beat and rhythm all over New Orleans, perhaps the most resounding of which are the electrifying Jazz

Funeral and the all-engaging Second Line. One of the ultimate things a family can arrange for a beloved deceased one is a Jazz Funeral where a brass band escorts the body from the church, playing a dirge pace of "Just a Closer Walk With Thee" and similar songs until several blocks toward the cemetery, stopping at the front door of the deceased to pay homage if it is not too far away. If the cemetery is near, the band will proceed there. Otherwise, they will turn back, changing the dirge to upbeat, signifying that the soul of the beloved departed one has been released for heaven. One can say that Mardi Gras parades are one bookend of New Orleans life, while the Jazz Funeral is the other bookend of the grand celebration that is life.

New Orleans Mardi

Gras revelry is a heart-rending calling out to all will hear. It is a distinct earthy echo of John the Baptist in John 1:23, "I am the voice of one crying in the wilderness: 'Make straight the way of the Lord.'" Look at it this way. But for the season of Lent, there would have never been a Mardi Gras, aka Carnival. The etymological breakdown of the word Carnival is fascinating, deriving from the Latin word caro (meat) and the Latin Word valere (to bid farewell). Carni-valere, therefore, literally means "to say farewell to meat." And so it goes for 40 days.

Although some people get carried away and turn Mardi Gras revelry into lascivious behavior, the overall tone of Mardi Gras is the joie de vivre, the sheer joy of living. Amid murderous, gut-wrenching school shootings, MS-13 brutality, ISIS insanity, gang and domestic violence around this Land of the Free and the Home of the Brave, Mardi Gras makes a statement of peace

LETTERS to THE EDITOR

Dear Editor,

Recently in Bay St. Louis two issues were passed at the December, 2017, Planning & Zoning Commission Meeting and eventually approved by the City Council.

It is not my intention here to go into the merits or detriments of either. One involved Ward Two and the other Ward Four. According to P&Z Commission Chairman Joey Manieri many citizens were present and spoke relative to the Ward Two situation. He was however surprised to see that only one Ward Four owner appeared at the podium.

I learned of the Ward Four situation just a few days before the February

City Council meeting, more than a full month after I would have expected to have been notified as an owner of property within the 300 feet proximity to a boundary of the property in question. In the brief time available before the Council meeting I attempted to become familiar with the P&Z notification process in general and specifically about this particular event by visits to online sites, the City Council office, City Hall, and finally by knocking on some doors in the affected neighborhood – primarily the 200 blocks of Carre Court and St. Charles St. as well as nearby Central Avenue. Everyone I encountered at City Hall and the Council office was pleasant and helpful. For a nominal fee I obtained a list of approximately fifty (50) owners, including five (5) duplicates with addresses to whom notices were sent.

It became clear immediately that my knowledge of the notification process was incomplete if not superficial. Section 1305 of the Ordinance requires several things be done at least 15 days prior to a public hearing for a variance on amendment request: a sign on the particular property, at least one more in another public place (frequently the door of the Council building and/or City Hall), publication in a local newspa-

NATIONAL COMMANDER

Jay Fountain presents an appreciation plaque to American Legion National Cmdr. Denise H. Rohan on behalf of Bourgeois Stieffel Ray American Legion Post 77 in Waveland.

SEA COAST ECHO

Bourgeois Stieffel Ray American Legion Post 77 in Waveland recently hosted a reception in honor of American Legion National Commander Denis H. Rohan that included breakfast prepared by the Silver Slipper Casino.

Rohan was elected national commander on Aug. 24, 2017, in Reno Nev., during the 99th national convention of America's largest veterans organization. Cmdr. Rohan is the first woman to be elected as national commander in the history of the American Legion.

Post 77 was among several Legion posts to welcome Rohan during her visit to Mississippi. Legionnaires and guests throughout the state attended the reception in honor of Rohan, as well as Bay St. Louis Mayor Mike Favre.

Mayor Favre presented a proclamation to Rohan on behalf of the city of Bay St. Louis. The honorable David A. Garcia and Hancock County Sheriff Ricky Adam welcomed here, as well.

per and a notice mailed to every owner of property within 300 feet of the external boundaries of the property for which an application was filed with P&Z. Now each of these requirements appears to have been accomplished and carried out in good faith. The Ordinance specifies that the mailings to owners are to be sent to "...the last known address (of the owner) AS SHOWN ON THE TAX ROLLS (emphasis added). The accepted practice seems to be for a city employee to access online the Hancock County "Geo-Portal," a map/data facility maintained by the County for its own purposes and offered to the public as a convenience. There are inaccuracies and errors which the County corrects as much as is practical on an annual basis from real estate transactions and other input. It is now clear that as an owner I have a responsibility to verify through the Tax Assessor's Office the accuracy of my own or (especially) shared property. The City measures 305 feet to assure compliance and generates names and addresses as per the Geo-Portal. But these are not the "tax rolls" the County uses to send property tax bills to individuals — far too many would go astray. I'm not familiar with the details of this arrangement and cannot define "tax rolls" with any specificity; nor does Section 1305.

For the City to use the Geo-Portal would seem to be a practical way to satisfy the Ordinance and it has probably been satisfactory in many past instances. But consider just a couple of problems that developed. Only 50 or so notices were mailed to 45 owners (many of which were returned). Fourteen owners were missed at Chateau St. Louis because the Geo-Portal only produced a single non-existent address in Metairie, LA. The 14 owners in question get their property tax bills sent to the correct place and the City gets water bills where they need to go, but NOT P&Z communication. Also, Christ Episcopal is within the 300 feet zone, it is shown on the Geo-Portal map but there's no mailing address — probably because of its tax status. So for this purpose the City is unable to locate Christ Episcopal. The ownership of Christ Episcopal could be considered the entire congregation. And even if that's not technically or legally accurate, there must be scores at least of individuals interested in what transpires literally across the street from their Church grounds. Maybe, maybe not, but they deserve to be kept in the loop.

I have heard suggestions from some individuals better placed than me to be familiar with the overall picture. One was to use the 911 system, but this doesn't differentiate between owners and other residents, probably doesn't take care of out-of-town owners. Maybe notification to non-owner residents should be revisited. In the short term, perhaps copies of the mailing list used could be copied to that Ward's Council Representative who would at least have the opportunity, if not the obligation or responsibility, to review it. In perhaps a better world, neighbors who do receive this type notification would endeavor to make sure every interested party was given the information necessary to participate.

Late December P&Z meetings are notorious for being passed up for holiday activities as some residents who did receive the postal card notice told me was their reason for not attending. Initially I believed this notification problem was sufficient grounds for the issue to revert to P&Z. Now I'm not so sure nor is there any reason for me to suspect any impropriety. Three Council members did vote to sent it back however their motivation may have only been in part (if at all) because of this consideration. My hope is that knowledgeable individuals will come forth from inside or outside city government to improve this process and amend the Ordinance as needed to assure a better result. I don't have all the answers but will certainly volunteer whatever assistance is within my ability to give.

Mississippi Volunteer Lawyers Project and the Harrison County Bar Association to host free Family Law and Misdemeanor Expungement Clinic

SEA COAST ECHO

Jackson, MS-The Mississippi Volunteer Lawyers Project (MVLVP) and the Harrison County Bar Association are sponsoring a free Family Law and Expungement Clinic to assist low income residents with uncontested family law matters. The clinic is scheduled for Tuesday, April 3, 2018 at the Harrison County Courthouse (1801 23rd Avenue, Gulfport, MS). Clients will receive legal court documents prepared by licensed Mississippi attorneys and legal advice on irreconcilable differences divorce, emancipation, power of attorney, simple wills, visitation and felony and misdemeanor expungement cases.

This legal clinic is open

The legal clinics are pro se clinics, meaning the individuals who attend and receive services from the attorneys are empowered to handle their legal matters in court on their own. The clinics are designed to assist self-represented litigants in preparing to go to court. Eligibility to attend a clinic is limited to people whose income is at or below 200 percent of the federal poverty level. For example, that would be an annual income of $24,280 or less for an individual, or an annual income of $50,200 or less for a family of four, based on the 2018 Federal Poverty Guidelines. Persons seeking assistance must register in advance and be screened for eligibility by MVLVP.

In 2017, MVLVP served approximately 2,100 Mississippi residents through referrals, direct representation, advice and legal clinics. Clinic participants are paired with dedicated and professional pro bono attorneys, many who have their own practices around the state or work for larger firms and corporations.

and joy so eloquent that people from around the world come to view its beauty and be a part of its festivities. So, despite the wilderness that surrounds us, the joyous voice still calls out.

Our life's sweet melancholy and bittersweet experiences are captured in the rapture and sheer celebration of balls from the Twelfth Day of Christmas; that is the Epiphany, the Christmas of us, the Gentiles. Increasing numbers of ca 100 parades lead up to the crescendo of Dimanche Gras, Lundi Gras and Mardi Gras.

The Krewe of Rex had 1,600 riders on 50 floats; Orpheus had 700 riders in 2018.

Stepping off a Coast Guard cutter on Lundi Gras, King Zulu met Rex and set Mardi Gras in motion.

All this bespeaks the longing of our hearts for everlasting life, personal and profound love, unending celebrations of and with our dear ones, the dispelling of all anxiety, and the sharing of all these wonders with our families, neighbors and the world. The great Saint Augustine sums it up, "You have made us for yourself, oh Lord, and our heart is restless, until it finds its rest in you."

Gazing at the lavish, extravagant, sparkling, gigantic floats, it is no wonder one hears that, as soon as Mardi Gras day is done, not missing a beat, the 95 New Orleans Krewes hasten back to the drawing board in their humongous float design and assembly buildings to make plans for the next Mardi Gras extravaganza.

Year 2025; the Hancock County School District would lose $2,655,192; and the Pass Christian School District would lose $1,055,427.

However, Sen. Philip Moran, R-Kiln, said Tuesday, those figures are based on the "pie-in-the-sky" MAEP formula, not real numbers.

"All five of the school districts which I represent - Bay-Waveland, Hancock, Pass Christian, Picayune, and West Harrison -- are going to receive more money under the new formula than they received in 2017-18," Moran said. "There are 142 school districts in Mississippi. Thirty-five will receive less money and 107 will receive more."

Moran said those projections are for real money, not the MAEP formula, "which was only funded twice, and once was because of Katrina money.

The old formula is not sustainable. We have to have something we can live with.

"I always vote to increase funding for education and will continue to do so. .. They will get more money under the new formula than they are getting this year. If for some reason that changes and my districts won't receive more money, I won't vote for it. ... We just have to make sure the numbers are right. If my district loses money (under the new plan), they cannot count on my vote."

Hancock Tourism GETS $150K GRANT FROM DEEPWATER HORIZON FUNDS

BY GEOFF BELCHER
NEWS EDITOR

The Deepwater Horizon oil disaster had a lasting impact on the Mississippi Gulf Coast, but the money recouped from BP is finally starting to help offset some of the damage.

The Hancock County Tourism Bureau has begun implementing a new $150,000 grant from the Gulf Tourism and Seafood Promotional Fund created with BP's repayment to the state. Hancock Tourism Director Myrna Green said the grant was announced last October, but the funds just recently became available.

"We're going to be using it for radio, digital and online promotions," Green said, "and we're bringing WGNO's 'News With a Twist' back to Hancock County in June.

Hancock County Tourism got the same amount of funds from the grant as Visit Mississippi Gulf Coast, Green said, which covers all three coastal counties.

"This is the first time they have allowed us to (use funding) for digital and online advertising," Green said.

"It enables us to showcase all of the events that well be had in Hancock County in the first part of the year, including Second Saturday, Pirate Day and Arts Alive!"

JROTC CADETS, INSTRUCTORS HONORED

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. - The Air Force JROTC cadets and instructors of Bay High School earned an overall unit assessment score of "Exceeds Standards," the highest rating attainable, during their unit evaluation.

Retired Lt. Col. Doug Williams, regional director of Air Force JROTC, headquartered at Maxwell Air Force Base, visited Bay High on Feb. 21 to conduct a formal Unit Evaluation and provided feedback on the unit's performance.

Two cadets, Cadet Major Haley Rowell and Cadet 1st Lieutenant Krista D'Angelo received the highest honor as "Top Performers SY2017-2018."

Retired Maj. Christopher S. Andersen and retired Master Sgt. Karen Chachere lead the MS-934 unit and both were recognized for their excellence in leadership and instruction by being named "Outstanding Instructors SY2017-2018." They will compete against the entire region.

Andersen, the senior aerospace science instructor, said, "We are so proud of the work our cadets have put into their program. Each and every cadet has developed a sense of ownership and family in their cadet corps. I believe this will continue to leave a legacy for years to come."

Col. Paul Lips, director of the Air Force JROTC, wrote in a letter to the Bay Waveland School District, "The cadets were very impressive and displayed exemplary pride in their unit. Your instructors are exceptional role models and are providing a high quality AFJROTC program. Your continuing strong support of the unit has contributed greatly to its success and is greatly appreciated."

Prevent fish kills in backyard ponds

BY WES NEAL
MSU EXTENSION SERVICE

STARKVILLE, Miss. -- From February through April, calls begin coming in about sick and dying fish in backyard ponds.

Usually, it is a few fish per day -- often catfish, but sometimes a mixture of species -- and the die off may continue for several weeks. Fish often show external signs of distress, including red sores, patches of fungus, and large ulcers in the head or back. All sizes of fish are affected. Upset pond owners often wonder who is out to get them, but it is highly unlikely that someone poisoned their fish.

The problem is most likely the pond water itself. Many locations in Mississippi have underlying geologies that are low in dissolve ions. Alkalinity, which is a measure of the negatively charged ions dissolved in the water, acts as a buffer for pH changes in a pond. Alkalinity encourages primary productivity in ponds and helps prevent wide swings in pH.

Similar to alkalinity, water hardness is the overall concentration of positive ions. Hardness reduces fish stress in ponds and provides important elements, such as calcium and magnesium, for animal survival.

For good fish health and growth, we recommend alkalinity and hardness values of at least 20 milligrams per liter. When values are below that level, fish tend to grow slowly, the pond is not very productive, and fish may become stressed and die.

These problems are especially severe during this time of year when weather is unpredictable. Some nights are below freezing, while others feel like a midsummer eve. Heavy storms bring influxes of cold or warm water, and rainwater is very low in alkalinity. These changes stress fish, making them susceptible to disease and infections.

External signs of disease are usually secondary, which means the fungus or bacterial ulcer you see on dead or dying fish is not the cause of the problem. It opportunistically invades an already sick or stressed fish.

The solution to poor water chemistry is relatively simple.

To overcome low ion concentrations, you must add ions. The best way is to apply agricultural limestone. Liming provides major benefits if you are growing sportfish in a pond with poor water chemistry. Limestone reduces the acidity of the bottom soils, which makes nutrients more available and increases the alkalinity and hardness of the water. These improvements reduce stress on the fish over the winter.

Application of limestone typically eliminates early-season fish die-offs for several years. However, ions will gradually be flushed from the pond, so liming may be needed every three to five years to keep water chemistry at appropriate levels.

If you suspect your pond may suffer from low alkalinity and hardness, contact your county Extension office to have the total alkalinity of the water tested. Be sure to ask for alkalinity, not pH, as pH can fluctuate hourly in ponds with poor alkalinity. If alkalinity is below 20 milligrams per liter, liming would benefit the fish population.

For more information, call your local county agent and request Extension Publication 1428, "Managing Mississippi Farm Ponds and Small Lakes."

Photo submitted

The Dave Mayley Band will rock the house on Thursday, March 1st at Cuz's for the Cause at Cuz's Restaurant in Bay St. Louis. Members of the band are helping raise funds to support the work of 23 different charities under the Hancock Community Development Foundation. Foundation Chair Leslie Henderson is part of the band with Dave Mayley, Richard Pohl, and David Sallis. During the event, the band will introduce a new member, guitarist and local businessman, Kevin Estrade.

SEA COAST ECHO

On March 1 you can make one small donation to help 23 different causes in our community," said Leslie Henderson, chairman of the Hancock Community Development Foundation.

Henderson said the entire community is invited to join with her and members of the Dave Mayley Band to celebrate the work of these passionate volunteers that are helping our community grow.

The event is being sponsored by Cuz and Christy Barnes, and is touted as Cuz's for the Cause from 6-9pm at the popular restaurant.

Tickets are only $25 per person and includes tunes from the Mayley Band and an enticing fare of seafood gumbo and bisque, jambalaya and potato salad.

Proceeds raised benefit the Hancock Community Development Foundation, a 501 (c) (3) non-profit charity founded by the Chamber of Commerce more than a decade ago. The Foundation acts as an umbrella organization, incubating and supporting community causes that range from the arts to education, historic preservation to beautification, greenways and byways, youth and safety programs, park improvements and small business and leadership initiatives.

For a complete list of funds the Foundation supports and to reserve tickets to the event on line go to www.hancockchamber.org.

You may also get your tickets by calling event chairs, Cherie Labat (228-216-9383) or LiLi Stahler Murphy (228-243-3235).

On line reservations are available at www.hancockchamber.org or you may stop by the Chamber Office at 100 South Beach on the second floor of Hancock Bank.

"Help us reach our goal to sell out the event," said Henderson. "If we all give a little, we will certainly get a lot more for our community."

Bay St. Louis, MS – For the third year, attorney Brehm Bell will select a local senior from Hancock County, MS as his scholarship recipient. The Brehm Bell Future Lawyers Scholarship is a $1000 one-time award to a high school senior who is planning on pursuing a law degree. Both public and private high school applicants are asked to submit applications no later than April 1, 2018.

A practicing attorney in downtown Bay St. Louis since 1995, Bell focuses his practice on personal injury cases and helping people who are overwhelmed or frustrated with the legal process. "Our legal system and insurance processes are hard for people to navigate sometimes," said Bell. "We need bright, compassionate minds to enter the field of law to continue helping people have a voice."

Bell, who put himself through law school sans scholarship, worked as a deckhand on tugboats in order to pay for his education at University of Mississippi Law School. He graduated in 1989 and began work as an attorney in Meridian. After five years, he decided to move his family back home to Hancock County and build his personal injury practice there.

"The practice of law is a noble profession that allows you make a living helping people in their search for justice," said Bell. "It is my hope that these funds will assist a young person in their dream to make this world a better place."
